Smith and McAdoo Will Try

Inside the Hen's Egg

Proud Man—His Ego

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1925, by the Star Company.

THE SCIENTIFIC person says:

"The recent terrific heat comes from spots on the sun, unusually fierce."

Another says: "The heat travels North from tropical jungles, thanks to atmospheric conditions."

Accidental conditions of the air lanes send us heat from the equator. How soon shall we learn to do, for ourselves, what nature does fitfully and at the wrong time?

DO YOU DOUBT that fully civilized men will transfer surplus heat from the equator to the North Pole? That will seem a modest accomplishment some centuries hence.

It seems difficult to us. But suppose you had predicted, two hundred years ago, that the lightning flashing in the sky, occasionally killing men, would be harnessed, one day, and made to run a washing machine, a fan, or a carpet sweeper. Men will manage and direct the earth's heat as easily as they now direct heat from a furnace.

KIND HEARTED persons raised a quarter of a million to pay the Democratic party's debts for 1924. Mr. John W. Davis, you are told, has promised to keep control of the party, and not allow McAdoo, or Governor Smith, to take control of the 1928 convention.

EASY TO PROMISE, not easy to do.

Both Smith and McAdoo intend to run that convention. If Frank Hague, of New Jersey, is made chairman, he will not help the program to suppress Smith. And, anyhow, the latter knows SOMETHING about politics and conventions.

You will probably have the Smith-McAdoo contest over again.

THE TENNESSEE Legislature, having forbidden teaching evolution, is now requested by a sectarian society to forbid teaching that the world is round, or that it revolves about the sun. That would be consistent.

WHY NOT, also, forbid anybody to study evolution as it goes on, during 21 days, inside a hen's egg. The innocent young mind, observing evolution within the egg, might be led to ask the implous question: "Is the earth, perhaps, a great egg, in which life develops through evolution, as it does within the eggshell?"

A REALLY intellectual hen would tell you that the chick was inside the shell, feathers, beak, eyes, feet and all, from the moment it was laid. You could not convince her that any evolution goes on in that shell. She's the chick's mother, and ought to know.

SHOULD A LAW be passed against teaching that the earth is round, W. J. Bryan, according to semi-official announcement, will not act as prosecutor, if that law is violated.

Years of deep study have convinced Mr. Bryan that the earth MAY be round, for all he knows, although it LOOKS flat, and the Bible says it has four corners.

VANCE THOMPSON, writer, worked in New York, went to France, died, will be cremated in Marseilles, and his ashes sent to rest in Los Angeles, at his request.

Had he gone to Los Angeles, instead of Europe, as 1,000,000 Los Angelesians will assure you, there would have been no ashes, but many long years of life instead.

MR. THOMPSON wrote "Eat and Grow Thin" and other books. Concerning love, he said: "When a man loves a woman, in proportion to what he gives her of himself, he sacrifices some essential part of his ego." Too bad, too bad.

How seriously men take their important affections and careers.

If a man sacrifices anything in his devotion to a good woman, it is part of the monkey within Mae Jensen, vaudeville actress, who has given police a good description of suspect hunted in Hotel Hollis murder case. This suspect accosted her in the hotel shortly before the killing of Mrs. Mae Price, stage "mother." Rogues' Gallery photos of the man, a prison fugitive, will be shown Miss Jensen in the hope that she can positively identify the suspect. These pictures, with finger prints, are now being rushed to Boston.

COLLISION PERILS 40 IN CREW; PUMPS ARE USED TO SAVE CRAFT

Ploughing through a thick, oily fog a mile out of Vineyard Sound early today, the freighter West Saginaw, bound for Boston from coast ports, crashed into a submerged derelict.

A hasty investigation revealed that the craft was taking water forward, and for a time it was feared that she would go down with her crew of about forty men.

WATER IN HOLD.

The anchor was dropped and a more thorough investigation was made which showed that the West Saginaw has punctured her forward plates, and that water was entering its hold.

Bulkheads were closed, and working at top speed, under the directions of the officers, the members of the crew succeeded in plugging the leaks sufficiently to permit the vessel to resume her course with pumps going.

The freighter proceeded slowly toward Boston, after wirelessing news of her plight, and preparations

SEEK NEW SUSPECT IN HOTEL SLAYING

By BERT FORD

Rogues' gallery photographs and finger prints of the slayer of Mrs. Mae Price, wardrobe mistress of "The Brown Derby" company, are being rushed to the Boston Police by officials of the Federal prison from which the suspect recently escaped.

Miss Mae Jensen, vaudeville performer, who was accosted by the tall, swarthy, smartly dressed suspect on the sixth landing of Hotel Hollis, the scene of the murder, will be asked to identify the Rogues' Gallery pictures as soon as they arrive.

Miss Jensen, at a second interview at police headquarters, gave a detailed description of the hotel prowler which, with her statement, was jotted down by the police stenographer.

The description furnished by Miss Jensen, coupled with all the evidence in the case, disputes the theory that George Michael Pavlis, sought since 1921 as the slayer of Mrs. Bessie Price of Stoughton, was the man who robbed and strangled the sixty-year-old wardrobe mistress at Hotel Hollis early on Sunday, May 31.

VANISHED DAY OF CRIME.

The ex-convict who escaped from a long term in prison is much taller and swarthier than Pavlis. He is a real desperado, as his criminal record shows. He is a product of New York's underworld. He registered

1 DEAD IN JOY RIDE, 2 HURT; DRIVER HELD

One man is dead, two are dying, and a fourth is under arrest, as a result of an auto crash on Lexington street in Waltham early today.

The accident occurred a quarter of a mile east of Strathmore road.

Joseph Heap of No. 5 Hamilton street, Newton Lower Falls, was killed. His skull was crushed.

Fred Reeves of the same address suffered a compound fracture of the skull.

Thomas Butler of No. 5 Hamilton street, a roommate of Heap, got a fracture of the skull and other injuries. He and Heap are at the Waltham Hospital.

Botsford Dakin of Conrad street, Newton Lower Falls, was the driver, who sent the car head-on into a telegraph pole.

He was arrested charged with manslaughter, but when they started to arraign him he fainted and was taken away to the hospital with his friends. His injuries include shock and slight abrasions.

Questioned at police headquarters, in Waltham he said that he with his chums, all of whom are employed in a Newton paper mill, were returning from a joy ride.

He told the police that while riding along Lexington street, toward Newton, the headlights on an automobile going in the opposite direction blinded his vision. He said that he turned sharply to the side of the

BOY CYCLIST KILLED UNDER SCHOOL BUS

Lawrence, June 9.—Picnicking school children were horrified today when a motor bus containing about fifty of them ran down a bicycle ridden by two small boys, on the State road in North Chelmsford.

Andrew Drinan, thirteen, of Market street, Lowell, was killed. Nick Macheros, also thirteen, of Clare street, Lowell, was seriously injured.

Ban Johnson, Like Ye Bashful Boy, Honored by A.B.

Marietta, O., June 9 (A.P.).—Becoming nervous when the audience began cheering after he was presented the degree of Bachelor of Arts by President E. S. Parsons, Marietta College, Ban Johnson, president of the American League, got his cap twisted as he attempted to adjust it on his head.

Vice-President Charles G. Dawes was among others attending class reunions.

CHINESE WOUND U. S. WOMAN

London, June 9 (I.N.S.)—Mrs. Frank Crampton, an American woman, was wounded in the arm today as Yannanese troops continued to bombard government forces on the Island of Honan, according to a dispatch from Canton to the Central News.

Four Americans endeavored to cross from Honan to Canton in a launch flying the American flag but were fired on by Yunnanese gunners and were compelled to return to Honan.

Shanghai, June 9 (I.N.S.)—Mobs of Chinese threw mud today at American bluejackets stationed at the border settlement to guard foreigners from overt acts by the Chinese on general strike against all foreigners.

Chinese constabulary intervened and drove off the Chinese before the Americans were forced to take action.

Ten British river and coast steamers failed to sail last night and this morning because of a walkout of members of the Chinese seamen's union. The union threatens to call out enough men to tie up all shipping including trans-Pacific and European liners.

Strike agitators are directing their strongest efforts against Japanese and British subjects in an attempt to effect a nation-wide boycott of all Japanese and British goods.

COOLIDGES ARE ON WAY BACK TO WASHINGTON

On President Coolidge's Train, en route to Washington, near Madison, Wis., June 9 (A.P.).—Somewhat wearied by their strenuous day in the Twin Cities of Minnesota, where the President took part in the Northwest American Centennial celebration, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge spent a restful night on the first lap of their return trip. Washington will be reached tomorrow morning. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge were smiling broadly as they boarded their train and were apparently pleased with the reception.

OLYMPIA MUST FIGHT FOR LIFE AGAIN; STATE SEEKS SECOND TRIAL

New Haven, Ct., June 9 (A.P.).—Miss Olympia Macri, twenty-year-old unwed mother, whose recent trial on an indictment for murder in the first degree in killing John Bagnano, alleged father of her daughter, ended in a disagreement, probably will be retried this month.

Today, State's Attorney Arnon A. Alling formally notified Joseph Koletsky, counsel for the accused, of his intention to ask the court for immediate retrial of the case and a change of venue.

Mr. Alling also informed Mr. Koletsky of his intention to make a presentment to the court based on Mr. Koletsky's alleged criticism of Irving A. Andrew, a juror, from Orange, who was the only member of the jury to refuse to vote for acquittal of the defendant.

WANTS CHANGE OF VENUE.

The jury which heard the evidence against Miss Macri, extending through nineteen court days, was discharged May 28, standing eleven for acquittal and one against. The next day State's Attorney Alling told the court he would make his decision known on June 9 as to whether he desired a retrial or not. Judge Christopher L. Avery who had presided at the trial, accepted this statement and in effect court took a recess.

Mr. Alling made his decision known today by sending a letter by messenger to Mr. Koletsky, and

3 M'MILLAN PLANES IN HUB WEDNESDAY

Philadelphia, June 9. (A.P.)—Members of the naval personnel in charge of the amphibian airplanes to be used on the MacMillan Arctic expedition said today they had no direct information from Donald B. MacMillan that he may change his plans and fuel hastily from Cape Thomas Hubbard to Cape Columbia in case a search for Amundsen is necessary.

"MacMillan is the boss of the expedition," said one of the navy men at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. "Whatever he says, goes; and wherever he orders us to go, we are going."

Today there was every prospect that the three planes, NA-1, NA-2 and NA-3, would get away from the navy yard tomorrow on the three and one-half hours flight to Boston.

Preparations were made to send

D'ANNUNZIO WORSE; INFLUENZA VICTIM

Gardone, Italy, June 9.—The health of Gabriele D'Annunzio, the poet and aviator, has become worse.

He was not well during the recent visit of Premier Mussolini, and his condition was affected by his excessive exposure during the Premier's sojourn at D'Annunzio's villa here.

He is now suffering with influenza and stays in bed because of fever and inflammation of the bronchial tubes.

WIDOWS ARE GOING TO FIGHT FOR THEIR RIGHTS

Sacramento, Calif., June 9 (A.P.).—Articles of incorporation have been filed in the office of the Secretary of State by the Widows' Protective Association. The principal purpose of the organization will be to protect the common financial interests and investments of its members, and to assist in the recovery of money fraudulently procured from them.

BODIES OF 14 ENTOMBED MINERS ARE RECOVERED

Sturgis, Ky., June 9 (A.P.)—Bodies of the fourteen miserable miners, victims of an explosion in the West Kentucky Coal Mining Company here, were found today and brought to the surface with three others found last night. The victims, seven white men and ten negroes were found at the 400-foot level and more than a mile and a quarter back of the shaft mouth.

BIG QUINCY PAGEANT TONIGHT

Pageant Depicting 300 Years of City Growth Feature of Celebration

Today is the day for which Quincy has worked with tireless energy, for tonight the big lights at Merrymount Park with their million candlepower, will bring to life the stirring days of hardship of 300 years ago with the first presentation of the big pageant portraying Quincy's history from the time of the first settlement to the present day.

With its chorus of 600 voices, with its 200 dancers and 1,500 actors, the pageant will continue through the week with daily performances except Friday. Under the direction of Virginia Tanner, author and producer, the pageant promises to surpass anything of its kind yet produced in the country.

Assisting Miss Tanner are Mrs. Ruth Ross, secretary of the pageant committee; Mrs. Alice Nelson at headquarters; Walter M. Smith, music, John D. Smith, cast; Fred A. Bartlett, health and sanitation, and Dr. N. S. Hunting on schools.

Opening with the colonists at Merry Mount, the first episode of the pageant portrays the Antinomians and the purchase of the land. Then follows a dance interlude interpreting the menace of the Indians.

The second episode shows the province in the days of John Quincy, John Hancock and Dorothy Q. Then follows the two years of revolution and the beginning of American liberty.

The third episode is "the Commonwealth," taking the audience through the days of the incorporation of Quincy, the development of the granite quarries and the trials of the Civil War. The pageant ends with Quincy receiving her foreign born and showing them their heritage from the past.

FINAL REHEARSAL.

This afternoon, a final rehearsal of the pageant paves the way for the production tonight. Extra seats will be provided to take care of the overflow crowd.

The celebration program for the day centers about the pageant, but the afternoon will be devoted to the entertainment of visitors who are overflowing the city to visit the historic spots of which Quincy boasts so many.

The fireworks on Friday and the civic and military parade on Saturday are other outstanding features planned to make the anniversary week one to be long remembered.

If yesterday can be judged a criterion, the attendance at Quincy's birthday party will pass all expectations and the committee will be kept on the jump, for chill winds and threatening skies could not dampen the ardor of the first day of Quincy's 300th birthday. More than 10,000 visitors flocked to the city and filled the streets.

The afternoon kept busy the corps of specially trained High school boys and girls acting as guides to point out to the visitors Quincy's landmarks. Not only are these guides schooled in the historic spots, but they have been put through a rigid test on Quincy's history and picked, through elimination, out of more than 500 High school pupils.

Merrymount park was overflowed for the introductory exercises in the evening and hundreds of extra seats had to be procured at the last minute to take care of the unexpected crowd.

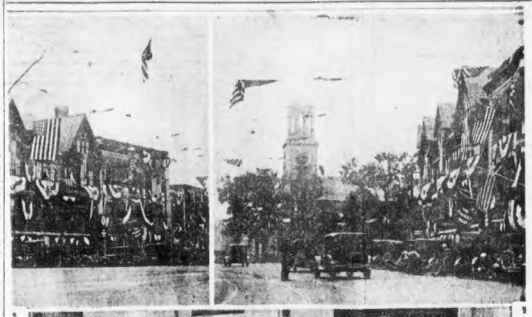
MAYOR PRESIDES.

Mayor Perley E. Barbour opened the exercises with a welcome to Quincy. Attending the exercises were six former mayors of the city, Russell Sears, Gustavus B. Bates, Eugene A. Stone, Joseph K. Whiton and Henry O. Fairbanks. Louis Frothingham and Captain Felipe Fleiss, Commander of the Argentine battleship Rivadavia also were among the visitors.

Former Attorney General of Massachusetts Herbert Parker delivered the oration and spoke of the significance of the anniversary celebration and the vital need of keeping alive the history of the nation as a priceless heritage forming the basis of American citizenship.

A living American flag, composed of school children, presented a striking spectacle. More than 350 school children took part in the demonstration. The music of the evening was furnished by the pageant chorus of 600 persons under the direction of Herbert J. Gurney. A band concert also was given.

QUINCY IN HER GALA DRESS



The top pictures show two views of Quincy square decorated with flags and bunting in honor of the 300th birthday of the city being celebrated this week.

Inset shows Mrs. Ruth Ross, secretary of the pageant committee of the Quincy Tercentenary.

were made here to drydock the craft immediately on arrival.

The West Raginaw is of 8,000 tons and Dalton of New York is agent for the freighter, which is believed to have been a Shipping Board vessel.

DETAILS NOT SENT.

Little information could be obtained regarding the vessel here, but it is thought she is carrying a cargo of coal.

The wireless telling of the crash contained only few details.

There was no information as to whether other vessels had gone to the assistance of the disabled freighter.

when its receipt was acknowledged the assembled newspaper men were told of the action Mr. Alling intended to take.

Mr. Kolotsky, after receiving the letter from Mr. Alling, said:

"I am not afraid of retrial. We will be glad to present this case to any twelve jurymen in the State, no matter what county.

"I deny that I ever publicly or secretly upbraided a juror or any other person. I do not practice law that way."

road, misjudged his distance and ran head-on into a telegraph pole.

The driver of the other machine made no attempt to assist the victims, but continued on his journey. So far as the police can learn no one else was an eye witness to the accident and Dakin did not get the registration numbers on the other car.

According to the Waltham police, Dakin was driving his machine at a high rate of speed when the fatal crash occurred. The light touring car which he was operating was split lengthwise in two.

Heap was riding on the front seat with Dakin and was hurled through the windshield and struck head first against the telegraph post, which wrecked the car. His body was found in front of the wrecked machine.

Reeves was in the back seat with Thomas Butler. The dead man struck his head on the curbing and was unconscious when picked up. Many bones in his body were broken.

Butler was thrown to the other side of the street and narrowly missed being run over by a machine which followed the brightly lighted car.

The police ambulance was summoned and removed the dead men and Butler to the Waltham Hospital.

The police found Dakin standing over the wreck in a dazed condition. How he escaped being injured is a mystery.

NOTED OSTEOPATH DEAD; WAS STILLMAN WITNESS

Buffalo, N. Y., June 9 (I.N.S.)—Dr. Hugh L. Russell, one of the country's outstanding osteopaths, died suddenly of heart disease. He had for his patients many wealthy New Yorkers and held the spotlight during the Fitl Stillman divorce case in May, 1921. Mrs. Stillman, mother of Baby Guy Stillman, had been one of Dr. Russell's patients. Dr. Russell testified at the hearing.

City Bans Rain Song, Showers Follow

Kensett, Ark., June 9 (A.P.)—After the City Council here had passed an ordinance prohibiting the public singing, whistling, humming or otherwise expressing the song "Taint Gonna Rain No More," the long continued drought and heat wave was broken by showers. The temperature dropped nearly 40 degrees.

NEW SUSPECT

at Hotel Hollis late on the afternoon of Thursday, May 28, and disappeared early on Sunday, the day of the murder.

He was assigned to a room on the third landing. He had style, but no funds. His name on the hotel register and the fact that he gave New York City as his address, meant nothing to the police until good fortune led officers of Lagrange street station to another hotel in the South End, where they met two actor friends of the suspect.

These men told how he had borrowed money from them on the plea that he was "dead broke." Indications were that he had come to Boston in the wake of a circus.

Miss Jensen and other guests and attaches of Hotel Hollis recalled seeing the tall, dapper stranger loitering around the hotel for two days. He wore a light gray suit and straw sailor hat. He took his meals in a quick lunch room opposite.

He was in a position for three days to check on Mrs. Price and members of "The Brown Derby" company, which was playing at Wilbur Theatre directly across from Hotel Hollis. Furthermore, it has been established that while not himself a performer he was on intimate terms with many in the profession and was well posted on affairs in the theatrical world.

The two actors, who like Miss Jensen and attaches of the hotel were interviewed at police headquarters, admitted that the suspect was in desperate need of money. The man who strangled and brutally attacked Mrs. Price, took her life for $150. It is thought that he expected to find a much larger sum in her room. As it was, in his hurry, he got only what she had concealed under her pillow or in one of her stockings. He overlooked $10 in her coat pocket and did not touch her purse containing small change.

Intimates of the murdered woman say she never carried her money in her bag or purse, but always in her stocking. The fact that the suspect, whose room was on the third landing, was on the sixth landing of the hotel as late as 12:30 when he accosted Miss Jensen near the elevator a half-hour before Mrs. Price returned from Wilbur Theatre indicates to the police that he was a hotel prowler.

up the N.A.-3 today for a final full load test. N.A.-1 and N.A.-2 had reserve fuel tanks installed.

No specific hour has been fixed for the planes to leave tomorrow except to get away as soon as possible. They will fly direct to the naval air station at Squantum.

Upon arrival there, the planes will test out their radio compasses. The wings will then be dismantled and the three lanes stowed aboard the Feary, one of the two ships making the expedition north.

The mine sweeper Robin left the navy yard today with the last load of material for the airplanes, consisting of all kinds of parts. The material has been boxed and will be placed aboard the Feary.

Believes Amundsen Is Heading for MacMillan Base

Copenhagen, Denmark, June 9 (A.P.)—The best chance of finding Captain Roald Amundsen and his companion polar fliers is at Cape Columbia, West Greenland, where the American expedition under Donald MacMillan is going, is the opinion of J. Daugaard Jensen, Governor of Greenland.

"I believe Amundsen is en route here, as he has not returned to Spitsbergen," said M. Jensen today. "Some mishap has occurred, doubtless to the airplanes, or in trying to reach the Pole he used so much petrol that he was unable to return to his starting place and therefore flew as far as possible toward Cape Columbia, which is nearer the Pole by a third than Spitsbergen."

EX-UNDER-SECRETARY FOR IRELAND IS DEAD

London, June 9 (A.P.)—The first Baron MacDonnell of Swinford died here today. He will be remembered chiefly for his tenure of office as Under-Secretary for Ireland from 1902 to 1908, when he was Sir Anthony MacDonnell.

Although an avowed Home Ruler and an Irishman, he failed to placate the Nationalists, but was awarded a peerage upon his retirement, in recognition of his services to the British government. He was born in 1844.

Miss Coles "Works" Psychoanalysis on Pardon Board for Man Who Killed Woman

Hartford, Ct., June 9 (Universal).—Modern psychoanalysis appears to have scored in a decision by the State Board of Pardons, releasing from prison Charles P. Esposito, 36, of Greenwich, once sentenced to be hanged and now freed from life imprisonment.

The deliberations of the Board of Pardons are secret and the vote of the Governor and five other members must be unanimous.

It is believed contributing factors in the Esposito case were the passionate plea of Miss Genevieve Cowles, noted artist, and the endorsement of William H. Comley, the present prosecutor in Fairfield county.

Esposito was sentenced to death on January 22, 1907, for shooting his landlady in Greenwich, but the pardons board commuted the capital sentence to life imprisonment on March 23, 1908.

Esposito, who is a carver and artist, assisted Miss Cowles when she did a mural painting at the prison.

CAILLAUX PLANS FOUR BILLION FRANCS ISSUE

Paris, June 9 (A.P.).—Financial writers today credited Finance Minister Caillaux with a plan to print four billion francs more of bank notes and to increase the Bank of France's limit of advances to the government by a like amount, so the government can meet maturing bonds.

M. Caillaux is to appear this afternoon before the Chamber of Deputies' Finance Commission to outline his proposals for rehabilitating France's finances.

2 RESCUED FROM U. S. BALLOON

Goodyear III. Drops Into Sea During Gordon Cup Race

Brussels, June 9 (A.P.).—Both the American entrants are definitely out of the balloon race for the Gordon Bennett Cup.

The S-14, with Lieutenants Flood and McCormick, landed near Dieppe, France, yesterday.

The Goodyear III., piloted by Wade T. Von Orman, today was considered disqualified because its pilot accepted aid when the balloon fell at sea. Van Orman and his aide, C. K. Wollan, both of Akron, O., were rescued by a passenger steamship.

The four balloons still onboard of out of the eighteen that started Sunday were the Picardie and the Grand Charles, French, and the Belgica and Prince Leopold, Belgian. The Aero Club at Brussels discredited rumors that Pilot De Muyter of the Belgica had been killed landing in England.

The unofficial report of the Goodyear III.'s descent off Ushant Island, France, indicates the Americans traveled about 719 kilometers (441.17 miles), the greatest distance of any of the competitors yet known.

The leaders among those whose flights are already completed are the two Italian balloons Campino and Aerostier and the British Mizmar, with distances estimated at 390, 244 and 304 miles respectively.

MAN FOUND ON STREET HAS INJURY TO HEAD

Augustus Strasser, twenty-eight years old, of No. 19 Conant street, Roxbury, was found unconscious on the sidewalk at Shawmut avenue and Ball street today.

He was taken to City Hospital. He is suffering with a possible fracture of the skull. Police are investigating to learn if the man was beaten or struck by an automobile.

CAMBRIDGE MAN'S BRIDE OF ROSES

Holderness, N. H., June 9.—Preparations are almost completed for the elaborate wedding of Miss Helen Hope Edwards (above), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederick Edwards of Huntington, W. Va., to Joseph Edmund Bradley of Cambridge, Mass. The ceremony will be performed on June 27 in the rose garden of the $500,000 Edwards estate, "Miradon." Sherrys is sending from New York two special cars with more than forty servants, the Waldorf-Astoria orchestra and special interior and garden decorators.

DR. SUTHERLAND IS FADDIST ON FOOD

Laying aside his customary bow and arrow and armed with a chafing dish and a cookbook instead, Dan Cupid has completed a highly successful offensive against one of Boston's leading physicians, Dr. John P. Sutherland.

The seventy-one-year-old medical man, who is dean emeritus and professor of theory and practice of the school of medicine of Boston University, has filed marriage intentions, naming Miss Catherine G. Stewart, thirty-three, of Roxbury, as the bride.

EFFICIENT AS COOK, TOO.

The old saw about the shortest way to a man's heart being via his stomach is fully borne out by the romance of Dr. Sutherland and Miss Stewart.

For five years she was secretary to Dean Sutherland. An efficient secretary, Miss Stewart also found time to prepare an occasional meal for her employer.

Dr. Sutherland, who is opposed to the use of flour, meat and sugar as foodstuffs for the human body, discovered that his secretary was as efficient with the gas range and the baking oven as she was with the typewriter and the note book.

QUITS AS DEAN.

In the dean's quarters at the university Miss Stewart demonstrated her versatility with the chafing dish. The tasty food she prepared appealed so strongly to Dr. Sutherland that he succeeded in having himself invited to his secretary's home at No. 62 Blue Hill avenue, from time to time. With the proper equipment available Miss Stewart demonstrated that she was even more efficient as a cook than as a secretary.

Two years ago Dean Sutherland retired as head of the medical school. He found it impossible to forget the culinary ability of his former secretary and he formed the habit of dropping in at the Stewart home from time to time. Strangely enough, these visits were always at a time when the members of the Stewart household were about to sit at the table.

100 P. C. HEALTH PROGRAM.

Still continuing as a member of the Boston University faculty, Dr. Sutherland finally decided that if he lived to be 100 years old, it would only be with the aid of his former secretary's cooking. The doctor pressed his suit with the ardor that it ordinarily associated with beardless youth, and the filing of the marriage intention tells the story of his success.

Miss Stewart is a graduate of the Boston University.

Dr. Sutherland, although advanced in years, is living true to his preachings of the past twenty years —that no one has a right to be ill; that it is possible for each and every one of us to live out our natural lives 100 per cent. well, both mentally and physically; that one never needs to feel old.

WORKS MOST OF TIME.

His secret of long and healthy life is a strict and absolute adherence to those foods which nature intended for human consumption, and those foods only, an adequate amount of exercise and enough sleep to fill requirements.

He plays a little golf, hears an occasional opera or concert, but principally, he works. He is the epitome of the human pinwheel for the most part of his waking hours, friends say. For twenty-three years he attended to his duties at the medical school, sometimes carrying sixteen lectures a week.

BOY SUES WALTHAM FOR TRAFFIC BEACON BLAST

Charging that a traffic beacon, stationed at River and Newton streets, Waltham, injured him when it exploded, Martin J. Hanshaw, of Waltham, filed suit for $10,000 in Superior Court, East Cambridge, against the city of Waltham.

The action was taken through the youngster's father, who also has brought suit for $5,000 against the city of Waltham as the result of injuries to his son. The explosion, the suit alleges, took place December 3, at a time when the young[illegible] was strolling by the corner.

Amazing Story of a Man's Struggle Against Temptations That Pulled Him Down to Die in a Cell

CHAPTER XLII

I HAVE mentioned "Canada Blackie" and his transfer from Auburn prison to Sing Sing on account of his health, and because Osborne felt the need of his influence to promote the best interests of the Sing Sing prisoners.

Soon after Blackie's arrival in January, his tubercular condition became much worse, compelling him to remain in bed. There was some talk of transferring him to Clinton prison, if the Adirondack region, but Blackie balked at the plan, pleading to remain near his "friend, Tom," meaning Osborne.

Some time previously, while Blackie was still at Auburn, I think it was, on learning of the man's grave illness, Governor Whitman had voluntarily declared that he would not let Blackie die in prison, that, in view of his wonderful come-backs for good and his excellent influence at Auburn following his release from "solitary," he, the Governor, would pardon him, provided he was assured there was no hope of the prisoner's recovery.

When Blackie declined to be transferred to Clinton prison, Tom arranged for his comfort in a special room on the top floor of the warden's residence. The sick man was carried up and installed there, with Billy Duffy as his nurse. After that, at all hours of the day and night, Blackie's wracking cough kept us reminded of his approaching death, making life tragic and more burdensome than ever.

Not that any of us thought of it in that way, for we all tried cheerfully, tremendously, and were willing to do anything in the world for him. It is only now, as I look back on the effort to understand what happened to myself and to explain it, that I see how Blackie's wretched outlook affected me, and gave me additional excuse for seeking solace and nightly oblivion in whiskey.

Mrs. Annie P. L. Field of Brook[illegible] ...ion became deeply interested in Blackie's case, and came to Sing Sing every other day to read and cheer the stricken man. Mrs. Field subsequently became the author of "The Story of Canada Blackie," a book which had wide circulation in the East. Day by day it became more and more certain that Blackie was doomed, until along in the middle of March I was one morning dispatched to Albany, bearing certificates from two doctors to the effect that Blackie had but a few days of life left.

A specialist, called from New York by Osborne a few days before, had taken one hasty look at the patient's throat and refrained from further examination, declaring afterwards that there was absolutely no hope.

To see our friend sink lower and lower, always smiling or trying to smile when conscious, had been a hard ordeal.

I arrived at Albany, the capital, determined that, if it were in my power to secure the pardon I would leave no stone unturned.

It was just before noon when I was received by the Governor. Briefly but forcefully as possible I stated my mission and handed him the doctors' certificates. I remained standing before Whitman's desk, not having been invited to take a seat. As he looked over the documents I studied him. His face was that of a fighter, with heavy jaws and cold, steel-gray or blue eyes. I'm not sure which. I remembered his bulldog determination in the Rosenthal mur[illegible]

A. E. SMITH, 50, OF HERALD, IS DEAD

Arthur Eugene Smith, treasurer of the Boston Publishing Company, which publishes the Boston Herald and the Boston Traveler, died today at the Union Avenue Hospital, Framingham.

Death was caused by heart disease. He was fifty years old.

When the Herald was published on Newspaper Row, Mr. Smith entered his service as a bookkeeper. He was later in charge of the advertising department, still later assistant treasurer and eventually treasurer.

Mr. Smith was a prominent Mason, a member of the Knights of Pythias and formerly an Odd Fellow.

He married Miss Elizabeth Nogler of Wayland in 1899. The oldest daughter, Evelyn, was recently graduated from the Faulkner Hospital for Trained Nurses at Jamaica Plain; the second daughter, Helen, is taking a post graduate course at the Framingham High School; the youngest daughter, Hope, who is 8, is in the intermediary school.

Mr. Smith had lived for years on Richards road, Southboro.

LOS ANGELES ORDERED TO RESUME ITS FLIGHT

Washington, June 9 (A.P.).—The airship Los Angeles was directed by Secretary Wilbur to resume its flight to Minnesota as soon as necessary engine repairs have been made.

It is expected that the dirigible, which turned back after getting as far as Cleveland because of engine trouble, will be able to leave Lakehurst, N. J., for its second attempt in about two days.

ALLSTON RESIDENTS TO FIGHT "L" BUS SERVICE

The Boston Elevated Company has filed a petition with the City Council for permission to abandon its tracks along Cambridge street, Allston, and to run buses instead. A protest, signed by 500 residents of the Allston district was presented to the Jitney committee of the Council by Councillor Walsh.

A public hearing on this and other petitions for buses to be run by the Elevated, including one from the North to the South Stations, will be granted at the next meeting of the Council.

HUB MOTORISTS OPEN PROBE OF 'SPEED TRAP'

Ossipee, N. H., Justice Nicks Bay State Autoists for $3,480 in Fines

Boston motorists are up to some over the "speed trap" which was been instituted in Ossipee, N. H.

Three hundred Massachusetts motorists were caught in the trap on Sunday, and these left a total of $3,480 in fines and costs in the hands of Judge Charles E. Smart, who commuted impromptu court in his house.

The officials of the Boston Motor Club are conducting an investigation of the manner in which the motorists were arrested and fined, while the Ossipee board of selectmen are meeting today to discuss the protests that have been lodged by Bay State car owners.

Arrested by a man who announced he was "the sheriff," the motorists were informed that they would have to appear in court on Monday morning. Almost to a man, the car owners declared they could not afford the time to return to the State for the hearing.

"Wal, Judge Smart lives down the street and he can fix you up now," was the reply of the "sheriff."

The judge was very much at home. He held forth in the living room of his home, where a steady stream of motorists passed before him. As each motorists stepped from the judicial residence he was just $13.60 poorer than when he entered the building.

Judge Smart, who is an associate justice of the court, declared today that he was entirely within his rights in fining the motorists in his home.

DISPENSARY IN NEED OF $51,372.50 MORE

The sum of $51,372.50 is still required to keep the various departments of the Boston Dispensary going at full strength, its budget for 1925 being $90,000 and voluntary contributions amounting to $51,372.50, according to announcement today.

The Boston Dispensary, which is not a civic institution, last year treated 500 patients. This number was only slightly exceeded by the outpatient departments of the Massachusetts General and the City Hospitals. The surgeons and physicians of the dispensary give their services free.

The total of contributions was swelled by gifts as follows: From Mr. and Mrs. Q. A. Shaw, Jr., $1,000; Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Stearns, $500; John R. Macomber and Kothland & Co., $250 each; Galena L. Stone and Mr. and Mrs. Costello Converse, $200 each.

Judge Says That Modern Parents 'Breed Crime'

Denver, Col., June 9 (A.P.)—The rising generation, with its reputed connection with crime, is not wholly to blame for laxity in law observance, Judge Ben B. Lindsey, founder of the Juvenile Court, said before the International Association of Policewomen, here today.

He declared modern-day parental influence as a breeder of crime, and said it admits exercised their influence for good over youth, there would be fewer juveniles in penitentiaries.

TWO COPS GET NEW HEARING IN 'GRAFT' CASE

Wilson Grants Appeal of Pair Accused of "Shaking Down" Autoist

Patrolman John T. O'Malley and Joseph T. Fitzgibbons of Division 10 were granted a public hearing by Police Commissioner Wilson today after they appealed from the finding of a trial board which recommended their discharge for grafting.

It was charged that the policemen stopped an autoist for not sounding his horn, accused him of being a bootlegger and demanded money. The man gave them $20 which they said was not enough, and commanded him to leave an additional $20 in an envelope at a near-beer saloon at Northampton street and Shawmut avenue.

He complained to police officials and was instructed to place a marked $2 bill in an envelope and leave it according to instructions, which was done.

Captain Jeremiah F. Gallivan and Sergeant Michael J. Hartnett lay in wait opposite the saloon and when the two patrolmen appeared, followed them inside. They took O'Malley and Fitzgibbons to the station house together with the bartender who produced the envelope torn open. He said when the policemen found there was only a $2 bill in the envelope they refused to take it.

The defense of the two patrolmen was that they thought they saw a bootlegger enter the saloon and went in to arrest him. It was pointed out that the saloon is on Division 5.

CAMBRIDGE COMPANY SUED FOR $16,704 BY U. S.

The United States today began a suit in the Federal Court here against the Corcoran Supply Company of Cambridge for $16,704.54, alleging that the Cambridge concern delivered between 19,000 and 20,000 faulty steam radiator valves to the Shipping Board at the Hog Island shipyards in 1919. The company contends the valves were delivered after careful inspection by government inspectors and that if they were not such as were called for by the contract specifications it is because of the government's own carelessness and negligence.

LIGHTNING KILLS MAN IN POOL HOLDING LIVE WIRE

Ithaca, N. Y., June 9 (A.P.)—Clifford O. Drake, an electric shovel operator, was instantly killed at the Portland cement works, on Cayuga Lake, where he was employed. After a severe thunderstorm that broke the heat wave, Drake stepped from his machine into a pool of water, while holding a high voltage electric wire that furnished power for the shovel. As soon as his feet touched the water he was electrocuted. Harold Bush, his assistant, was badly shocked when he attempted to release the wire from the other man's grasp. Bush will recover.

PRICE-FIXERS FACE TRIAL, HOOVER SAYS

Washington, June 9 (I.N.S.).—Conspiracies to fix prices and limit production will be prosecuted with the utmost vigor by the Government, Secretary of Commerce Hoover declared today in connection with the recent Supreme Court decision defining legal activities of trade associations.

Legitimate functions of trade associations make for a sounder economic fabric and healthy competition, according to Hoover, who said the big majority of organizations are operating for the general good of business and the consumer.

SAMOS ISLAND REBELS IN FLIGHT

Athens, June 9 (A.P.).—Belief that the insurrection on the island of Samos has practically ended is expressed in both the newspapers and official quarters.

Order is said to have prevailed at the capital, Vathy, since the entry of the Greek forces under Captain Ioannedis, following the evacuation of the rebels.

A military council was held to plan a roundup of the rebels, who fled in all directions.

ROOFER KILLED IN FALL AT BACK BAY

James Silvia, a roofer of Lexington street, East Boston, was instantly killed today when he fell to the street from the top of the building at No. 8 Norway street, Back Bay, on which he was at work.

Silvia, who was taken to the City Hospital by the police of the Back Bay station, was employed by D. J. Hines, No. 45 Milk street, Boston.

PREMIER PAINLEVE WILL FLY TO MOROCCO FRONT

Paris, June 9 (A.P.).—Premier Painleve told the Cabinet today he was leaving immediately for Morocco. He will go by airplane, accompanied by M. Laurent Eynac, under secretary of state for aviation. In Morocco he will confer with Governor-General Marshal Lyautey regarding the Riffian situation.

NEW HAVEN R. R. PROMOTES MORIARTY

Cambridge Man Goes to Headquarters as Mechanical Superintendent

Announcement of changes in the personnel of the mechanical forces of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad by W. L. Beach, new mechanical manager, was made today.

Last week Clinton L. Bardo, general manager of the road, who had been with the New Haven lines since 1904, resigned, because Beach was appointed over his head by President E. J. Pearson.

Today's announcement stated that George A. Moriarty of No. 38 Lee street, Cambridge, mechanical superintendent of the lines east, with headquarters at Boston, has been made general mechanical superintendent, with headquarters at New Haven.

In his new capacity Mr. Moriarty will have reporting to him the mechanical superintendents of the New York division, the lines west and the lines east, these being the three main subdivisions of the New Haven system. In addition, the shop superintendent at Readville and New Haven, the supervisor of auxiliary equipment, the supervisor of car inspection, the general locomotive foot inspector and the general welding inspector will report directly to the general mechanical superintendent.

To succeed Mr. Moriarty as mechanical superintendent, lines east, F. E. Hallda has been named. He was formerly assistant to the mechanical manager. There were a number of other promotions to fill the vacancies, all moving up as Moriarty's new position was created for him. The changes became effective Monday, June 8.

him, and that part of his ego is no great loss.

THE SUPREME COURT upholds as constitutional the criminal anarchy law, under which Benjamin Gitlow was sentenced in 1920.

Justices Brandeis and Holmes write dissenting opinions. Justice Holmes says the article published by Gitlow that caused his conviction presented no immediate danger of the overthrow of this government by force.

It is just as well, however, not to run any risks.

HOWEVER WEAK this nation may be, in the face of a spirited article written by an obscure Socialist, it is a strong nation, financially.

U. S. government bonds went higher than ever yesterday.

Those assured by this writer during the bond-selling campaigns, that bonds would go above par, will please note that "treasury four and a quarters" sold yesterday at 107.10.

YESTERDAY the government issued $125,000,000 3 per cent. certificates. The issue is the smallest since the war, to the disappointment of finance.

As was said by the late J. Pierpont Morgan, who knew: "It is not wise to sell this country short." But there is considerable commercialism when some radical says or writes that he intends to overthrow our government, as soon as he can get around to it.

JUDGE GARY is studying diet in the model hospital built for its employes by the Steel Company at Birmingham.

"Plain food, plainly prepared, plenty of good, not overstrenuous, exercise, and plenty of sleep, with no worry."

Such is Judge Gary's triple health recommendation.

IT TAKES every man 60 years to learn how to live. "At 50 a man is either a fool or a physician." But if a man at 50 will do what he knows he OUGHT to do, he may easily live 50 years longer.

To KNOW is one thing, to DO is another.

THE 19 MOST beautiful girls of Vassar's sophomore class will carry the daisy chain this year, for the last time. The heavy chain, of two strands, 300 feet long, ten inches thick, hurts the girls' shoulders, and they carry the chain resting on cushions.

Besides, girls are changing, and perhaps the young ladies dislike to present themselves as very beautiful. If so, they make a mistake. Nothing that they learn is more important than beauty.

Beauty is important and perfect in itself, and it stimulates ambition. Consider Helen of Troy. Had she been plain you might never have read Homer.

Mrs. Curtis Guild to Hold Sale for Vets on June 15

Tempting Array of Articles From Disabled Ex-Service Men's Exchange to Be Set Out

Photograph by Bachrach.

Mrs. A. Lyndo Cochran, after a year or so of living abroad, has returned to Boston with her interesting young family. Mrs. Cochran possesses a delightful personality and a voice of much sweetness, and has been a headliner in various Vincent Club shows.

Betty Alden

MRS. CURTIS GUILD OF MARLBORO street and Nahant sets Monday, June 15, as the day for her sale of articles made by the disabled ex-service men, and announces that it is to be at her Nahant home, the Lyman place, at the corner of Summer and Centre streets.

"EVERYONE IN Nahant knows the old William Lyman place," says Mrs. Guild. And of course she hopes that "everyone" both in and out of Nahant will find the way thither on that day, for the sale serves that worthiest of causes, the disabled soldier who is trying to aid himself.

THERE IS a smart and representative sponsorship, as is the case with whatever effort Mrs. Guild puts her cleverness to work upon. Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards is in charge and a tempting array of articles from the Disabled Ex-Service Men's Exchange in Boylston street will be set out.

THE EX-SOLDIERS seem to have a knack of making most anything under the sun, from delicately handwrought jewelry and silver pieces, through a large field of the strictly ornamental to the most utilitarian stages.

FANCY runs to gorgeously colored scarves and beautifully woven woolens to hand-painted hats and other feminine fripperies they may be had for a price, and a very moderate one.

SHOULD THE everyday wares of household usage be the object of purchase, there, too, is a wide choice. The housewife will delight in stocking up with linens and such, or perhaps invest her coin in some of the expert work from the upholstery shop.

MRS. EDWARDS, the head of the Exchange and all its great effort, has to her vast credit a busy shop in connection therewith, where repairing and upholstering is done by trained men.

ESTIMATES ARE given and orders placed and much excellent work has been turned out. That particular section of the shop is a flourishing portion of a flourishing whole, the labor of love of Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. Guild and others of that coterie.

THE SALE on the 15th continues practically all day, from 11 in the morning until 5:30 in the afternoon. Mrs. Guild gives a tea in the late afternoon hours to refresh both buyers and helpers, of whom there will be an energetic corps, not as yet fully enrolled.

LAST SEASON a number of such sales at country places were inaugurated in an endeavor to show large numbers of people just what splendid work the Exchange turns out. The affair on the 15th at Mrs. Guild's is the first out-of-door sale of this Summer.

OTHERS ARE on the tapis. The itinerary includes prospective visits to Pasadena and Dublin, up in the hills of Southern New Hampshire, where Smartdom from various centres is wont to gather for the warm season.

CAPE COD, also is a happy hunting ground for the itinerants of the Exchange, who heap up a truckful of tempting things and set out for new worlds to conquer. They also journey up along the coast of Maine, where many a dollar tinkles into soldier-workmen coffers in exchange for excellently turned out goods.

THIS YEAR there are other and newer objectives, the mountain resorts of New Hampshire, Bar Harbor, in Maine, and famous spas round about New England's famous Summer playground.

EN PASSANT, in speaking of Mrs. Edwards, she is to show her highly-bred Dalmatians at the Dog Show on June 17 out at the J. Randolph Coolidge estate in Brookline, where local dogs of great renown compete with out-of-town canines for doggish honors.

AND SPEAKING still again of both Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Guild, they were out in the throngs at Braves Field last week for the stupendous charity fete staged to benefit the American Legion Endowment Fund. General Clarence Edwards and Mrs. Edwards were box holders.

MRS. GUILD, in a costume that combined gray and black in a French manner, was extremely handsome as she held court in her box at the left of the arena. Nearby was Mrs. Talbot Aldrich, and just a short way around the circle Mrs. Benjamin F. Pitman entertained a party.

VERY YOUTHFUL and very lovely were the bridesmaids in the processional for the wedding late yesterday afternoon in Trinity Church of Miss Elizabeth Patterson and William Elliot Sharp. And extremely lovely and girlish was the bride herself.

SHE WORE A straightline frock of deep creme satin, with horizontal flounces of Duchesse lace about the skirt, the same delicate lace in deep berths effect at the shoulders, and binding the head closely in cap shape.

A VERY LONG and very narrow court train of satin swung from the shoulders and was weighted across the end with strands of orange blossoms. A gauzy veil of tulle floated above it.

TEN BRIDESMAIDS, all in similar gowns and chapeaux of soft sea-shell pink, and a maid of honor in an orchid frock just a shade deeper, with matching hat, were pretty as pictures.

MISS HOPE PATTERSON, sister of the bride (they are both daughters of Mrs. Arthur Bolles Patterson of Brookline), was the honor maid, and of the bridesmaids, five—like the bride herself—are buds of the Winter just past.

THEY WERE MISS JULIET GREENE, Miss Elizabeth Brewster, Miss Jane Noble, Miss Isabel Shaw, and Miss Eleanor Mason. Miss Caroline Towle, and Miss Elizabeth Taylor.

ALSO MISS MARY FESSENDEN WASHBURN of Providence, Miss Mary Frances Loud of Philadelphia and Miss Elizabeth Covel, who came out Winter before last, and is engaged to the bride's brother, Mr. Arthur Bolles Patterson, Jr.

MR. PATTERSON gave his sister in marriage, and there were two officiating clergymen, the Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, rector of Trinity Church, and the Rev. William G. Thayer of St. Mark's School, Southboro.

OF USHERS THERE were ten, all of the same youthful set as the bridesmaids. They served at the church ceremonial, and later at the reception when the young people received their friends at the Louisburg square home of Mrs. J. Theodore Heard, the bride's cousin.

SIX BOSTON MEN in the corps were Charles Lovering Sharp, Percy Musgrave, Benjamin C. Davis, Henry Sayles Francis, George T. Francis, Jr. and Francis L. Higginson, 3d.

FOUR WERE out-of-towners—Frederic Dumaine, Jr., of Concord; John Whitbeck of New York; Charles A. Pratt and Henry Tucker of New Bedford. Arthur R. Sharp, Jr., brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

MORE GUARDS FOR BOSTON BEACHES

Fifty-eight Largest Number Ever Engaged to Protect Swimmers

When the Boston bathing beaches are opened officially next Monday, a total of fifty-eight regular and relief life-guards, the largest number ever employed by the city, will be on duty, it is announced by William P. Long, deputy park commissioner.

Regular guards will include twelve at the new Columbus Park, South Boston; six each at the South Boston Head House and L street; four at North End Park; three each at World War Memorial Park, East Boston, Dewey Beach, Charlestown, Savin Hill and Tenean beaches, Dorchester, and two at Freeport street, Dorchester.

Sixteen more men will do duty as relief guards and if more lifeguards are found necessary, they will be appointed, Deputy Long stated.

GARY QUITS N. Y. CHURCH FOR HOME TOWN PARISH

Chicago, June 9 (A.P.).—Former Judge Elbert H. Gary, head of the United States Steel Corporation, and his family, have transferred their membership in the Methodist Episcopal Church in New York to the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Wheaton, Ill., the judge's boyhood home.

Several years ago Mr. Gary presented a $90,000 church to resident members of the Wheaton congregation in honor of his parents.

BOSTON-MANCHESTER BUS DRIVER HALED TO COURT

Lawrence, June 9.—A summons was issued today to George N. Lawrence, a driver for the Interstate Stage Line Company, which operates between Manchester, N. H., and Boston. He will be in court on June 16 to answer to a charge of being a common carrier without having a license. Four drivers of the company were arrested early in April and fined $25 each. They appealed, and the appeals are still pending.

BACCALAUREATE AT HARVARD BY LOWELL

Class Day Week Exercises Begin in Appleton Chapel Next Sunday

The Baccalaureate sermon by President A. Lawrence Lowell in Appleton Chapel at 4 p. m. next Sunday will formally open Harvard University's annual class day week, to end the following Friday with the Harvard-Yale boat race at New London.

At 3:30 tree exercises will take Thursday with exercises beginning at 3:45 a. m. in the Sever Quadrangle with Sanders Theatre reserved in case of rain.

Following the baccalaureate sermon and exercises Sunday, a reception to the senior class will be held by President Lowell at the Lowell home.

Monday will be featured only by the senior spread and dance in the evening, but a lengthy program is presented for Tuesday. At 9 a. m. will come senior class chapel service, followed at 11 o'clock by exercises in Sanders Theatre.

Philip Walker will deliver the oration, John Marshall the class poem and John Adams Abbott the class ode.

At 3:30 tree exercises will take place and at 4 o'clock the Stadium exercises, with the ivy oration by Robert Esden Simmer and the annual confetti battle, without which no Harvard commencement week is complete. Dancing in the gymnasium and Memorial Hall will take up the evening.

On Wednesday comes the Harvard-Yale baseball battle at Soldiers Field, on Thursday commencement day and on Friday the Phi Beta Kappa oration and poem in Sanders Theatre and then after lunches at New London.

Fog Halts Six Big Liners

New York, June 9 (A.P.).—A heavy fog which blanketed the outer harbor today delayed the arrival of six ocean liners, including the White Star liner Majestic with 600 passengers aboard. The vessels are reported anchored off Sandy Hook, or proceeding slowly towards Fire Island.

GANGSTER IS RIDDLED WITH BULLETS IN STREET

New York, June 9 (I.N.S.).—While he sat reading a newspaper on a front stoop in East 105th street today, Frank La Puma, twenty-seven, was riddled with bullets by several men who fled.

Police said La Puma was known as a gangster. Eye witnesses said he had been in animated conversation with several men half an hour before.

GIRL SCRATCHES COP'S FACE; HE'S SUSPENDED

Haverhill, June 9.—Patrolman Charles H. Woodes was suspended for ten days today when he was given a hearing on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer which were preferred against him after an automobile ride with a young woman from the Riverside section of Haverhill, during which it was alleged his face was scratched.

"A few delightful hours and my dresses were finished"
—writes one woman after trying her first Excella Printed Patterns

"With children's dresses so expensive to buy these days, I simply can't resist telling how happy I am over my experience at home-dress-making with the new Excella Printed Patterns.

"A friend told me of the many charming designs for children shown in your Excella Summer Fashion Quarterly. I picked out three for my little daughter and bought the patterns and material.

"A few delightful hours of sewing and my dresses were finished! Am so proud of the way they look, too. Just as smart and chic as the most expensive French things shown in the best shops here. And I made all three dresses for less than the cost of only one ready-made dress."

You, too, will be astonished how quickly and how pleasantly your dresses—whether for yourself or your children—are cut out, fitted and made ready to wear with these wonderful new Excella Printed Patterns.

Try just one. We will refund every cent incurred should you suffer the slightest loss through any defect in the pattern.

PORTER ADAMS TERMS FLIGHT 'SPLENDID'

Many prominent men vitally interested in aviation are loud in their praise of the Boston Evening American's $500 prize flight contest which is to feature the 150th anniversary celebration of Bunker Hill Day on June 17.

Among the most recent endorsements of this project is Porter Adams, acting chairman of the Boston Chamber of Commerce Aviation Committee and chairman of the Mayor's committee to receive the World Flight aviators.

Another name from W. Irving Bullard, a leading Boston business man, who is also a member of the Boston Chamber of Commerce Aviation Committee."

"ENCOURAGES FLYING."

In his endorsement of this newspaper's Prize Flight Contest, Mr. Adams wrote: "My attention has been called to the 'Sealed Order Flight Contest' sponsored by the Boston Evening American for the officers of the Air Service, 25th Infantry, Massachusetts National Guard, and I think it is a splendid thing and should do much toward acquainting the people of the State with the excellent work for aviation constantly being performed by our National Guard."

Mr. Bullard wrote: "My deepest congratulations to you for your enterprise in holding a Prize Flight Contest for Aeroplanes on June 17.

"The support of the Boston Evening American is one of outstanding value to the movement to encourage flying for both national defence and commercial uses.

"It is most appropriate that this prize flight contest should be held on June 17—the 150th anniversary of Bunker Hill Day.

"We cannot over-estimate the importance of the aeroplane. It is more vital in national defence than any other war machine, and I believe there will be a tremendous development in commercial flying within the next few years. All of us who are interested in aviation, from both the commercial and national defence angles, will raise our voice in loud praise for your support."

Other prominent men who have praised the Boston Evening American's proposed flight contest include His Excellency Alvan T. Fuller, Governor of Massachusetts; former Governor Channing H. Cox, who, as Chief Executive of this State, signed the Boston airport bill; Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, "daddy" of the 26th Division in France; Flyer Lieutenant Robert J. Brown, Jr., commanding officer of Boston Airport, who made the world flight of United States Army aviators possible; Major Charles H. Woolley, commanding officer of 26th Division Air Service, M. N. G.; Captain Clarence E. Hodge of the 26th Division Air Service, Major Arthur Richmond, commanding the Reserve Air Squadron, and Lieutenant A. F. Jones of the Army Air Service, who is officer instructor on duty with the National Guard.

Many prominent Boston women, including several leading members of the "400," will serve as patronesses. Among the patronesses are Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards, Mrs. Channing H. Cox, Mrs. Walter I. Badger, Jr., Mrs. Benjamin F. Pitman, Mrs. H. H. Bristow Draper, Mrs. Nathaniel Ayer, Mrs. Thorndike D. Howe, Mrs. Walter M. Pratt, Mrs. Maynard Ladd, Mrs. Timothee Adamowski, Mrs. Curtis Guild, Mrs. S. Parker Brewer, Mrs. Edward L. Logan, Mrs. L. Vernon Briggs, Mrs. Horace Morison and Mrs. A. E. Jones.

WEEKS WELL ENOUGH TO SIT UP FOR TIME

For the first time since his operation for gallstones, Secretary of War Weeks today was permitted to sit up for a few minutes. He is in Phillips House, Massachusetts General Hospital.

A bulletin issued by Dr. Daniel Fiske Jones and Dr. F. Gorham Brigham said the Secretary's condition was excellent and shows continued improvement.

Eight Moros Killed in Fight

Manila, June 8 (A.P.).—In a fight between the Constabulary and Moros in Lanao Province, eight Moros were killed and three wounded. Three Constabulary men were wounded. General Leonard Wood's orders to capture Sultan Raya and his followers caused the fight.

BRITAIN TO AID BOTH GERMANY AND FRANCE

New Security Pact Guarantees Protection of Each Side of the Rhine

London, June 9 (AP)—The British government today gave official acknowledgement of the Franco-British agreement on the reply to Germany's security pact proposal, announced at Geneva. The British statement emphasized that the proposed pact is one of mutual assistance.

The statement said that Great Britain has guaranteed to protect both sides of the Rhine, and therefore has pledged to assist either Germany or France against aggression by the other.

This abandonment by Great Britain of her long-standing policy of isolation from continental affairs is a concession to the peace and security of Europe, the statement said.

Before the pact can function it will be necessary for Germany to enter the League of Nations as a full-fledged member, an entire change of the former policy, under which it had been maintained Germany should become an unconditional member of the league.

It is believed here by some persons that Europe is now nearer security than at any time since the armistice, and that a general settlement may come within a few months.

Hylan Is Guest at $25,000 Dinner

New York, June 9 (A.P.).—What was said to be one of the costliest and most elaborate dinners ever held in New York was given in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf Astoria to Mayor Hylan by City Chamberlain Philip Berolzheimer. Estimates by some of the guests put the cost at $25,000.

The ballroom was transformed into a miniature park with rustic bridges and artificial waterfalls. Access was gained by long winding bridges.

The likeness of a formal garden was carried so far as to have even gravelled paths.

ITALY'S DESERT FLIERS PERISH OF STARVATION

Cairo, June 9 (A.P.).—The search for four men who have been missing since they flew over the Italo-Egyptian frontier in a giant Italian airplane early in March, ended with the discovery of four bodies in the desert between the Sollum and Siwa oases. The war ministry has delegated a commission of officers and doctors, to be accompanied by two Italian officers, to proceed to the spot where the bodies were found and definitely establish the cause of the deaths, which were apparently due to starvation.

GIRL BLAMED IN SUICIDE NOTES OF LYNN MAN

Found Seated on Gas Stove With Burners Opened In New York House

"Sonia threw me over again. I wish I had a dollar for every time she has done that to me. I'd invest the money at 6 per cent. and be a rich man."

This was the final plaint of Sidney Rundlett, thirty years old, of Lynn, before he ended his life by inhaling illuminating gas in a boarding house at No. 276 West Seventy-first street, New York.

Rundlett told the story of his unrequited love in a series of five notes, found beside the body. Three of these notes were addressed to Miss Suzie Lancaster of No. 36 Friend Street place, Lynn, a stenographer employed at the New Ocean House, Swampscott.

CHENEY'S WINTERGREEN CREAM LINIMENT

The Indians called Wintergreen Oil "Wonderful Wintergreen," because it lubricates the joints and muscles, bronzes it relieves neuralgia, soreness, pains of rheumatism, inflammation from sprains, bursting of chilblains, neuralgic pains. Relieves chest and bronchial inflammation, preventing pneumonia and other more serious troubles.

It is delightful to use, as it consists of Wintergreen Oil mixed with other valuable oils into a white creamy liniment.

It rubs in dry, being completely absorbed.

Others call it wonderful. You be the judge.

Girls—Get This $1000

Are you the SMART SET Girl?

HAVE you a sister, sweetheart or daughter who is a type of the chic loveliness we want on SMART SET covers? Give her a chance for fame, money, and a career.

SMART SET'S American Girl cover competition has started gloriously. And now comes your chance to share in its climax.

SMART SET believes that if it selects its covers from among its own readers it will have the most beautiful covers in the world—covers that reflect the vitality and attractiveness of SMART SET'S human stories and features.

Free Portraits in Oil

HENRY CLIVE will paint in oil the portraits of the girls the jury selects. These will be exhibited on Fifth Avenue, reproduced in newspapers and presented to the girls who posed for them. Stage managers and movie producers will see the pictures. The millions who read SMART SET will pay these girls a tribute that means much in the making of a career.

Buy July SMART SET today and follow the simple rules on page 88. Tell all the girls you know about this novel Beauty Contest. Turn to the beautiful illustrations in July SMART SET for ideas as to attractive poses. This cover competition is one of the score of novel features that go to make SMART SET the fastest-growing monthly on the news-stands.

$1000 a Month in Prizes

NOW comes the climax to this generous offer. SMART SET reveals here a secret that we meant to keep until the August issue.

A check for $1000 will be given to each of the girls whose photographs are selected by the judges for the first three covers. These awards may be continued, but to be sure that you are considered for one of the first awards send in your photograph (a clear snapshot will do) at once.

BEST CIRCUS EVER, OFFICE BOY SAYS

Clowns, Horses, Trained Bears and Gymnasts Keep Johnny on Jump at Show

By JOHNNY SAXON,
Boston Evening American Office Boy Extraordinary.
(Try and fool him!)

They sent me to the Ringling circus about ten minutes of two and today I made that. Nemo ain't look like a third ruler when I went dashing up Summer St. One John Sap and boy, kid shy decoha get a pair of roller skates then people will hear you coming if they don't see yuh.

The parade they had sure made my eyes blink when they went pass me, the horses were kinda balky but they made up for it in some kind of a game, something like London Bridge is Falling Down.

CLOWNS AT FIRE.

One fella comes in as tho' he was drunk but he sure made everybody take notice when he got on that wire that was hanging loose and then started to swing for about ten minutes then he done a somersault onto the ground.

The clown started a fire and the fire department came out in their engines and put the fire out but they made a lot of noise doing it. Them miliget firemen sure made that thing step around that lot, but the funniest thing of all was the way the soul of the guy who lost his life in the make believe disastrous fire went up to heaven.

Those bears sure could ride them bikes—I'll bet they would beat Madonna or Arty Jackson in a sprint race.

May Wirth is sure greased lightning and I don't mean perhaps. Her feet sure knew their groceries when they were put in two market baskets and she jump onto that horses back when it was going full speed.

That Lillian Leitzel must be made of iron becus she ties herself into a knot about fifty times, they called it a feat of strength and endurance. I don't know what they mean, but I know my back teeth would do a hand spring if she should take a sock at me.

SCHOOL CADETS ESCORT AT HYDE PARK BOY'S FUNERAL

An escort of eight senior officers from the Hyde Park High School battalion was to accompany the body of Frederick A. Aubin, seventeen years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Aubin of No. 55 Meadville street, Hyde Park, who died on the eve of his graduation, to the grave today.

SURE, ELEPHANTS LIKE PEANUTS

NED WAYBURN REVUE HEADS BILL AT KEITH'S

Although we seldom take our black coffee in the middle of a perfect evening, Ned Wayburn's Demi Tasse Revue at B. F. Keiths The atre last night, sandwiched in as it was in the middle of the bill, certainly did much to top off an excellent evening of vaudeville.

As you may have guessed, Ned Wayburn's revues' consists chiefly of dainty girls, delightful song and dance numbers and costumes—there are seventy of them—costumes, not girls. There are thirteen in the company, not counting Mr. Wayburn, and they are well worth seeing.

Maker and Redford, in Rolling Stones, an unusual little sketch in two scenes, were unquestionably a hit with their offering.

The Courtney Sisters, with Dave Musselmann, cellist, and Phil Mockridge, pianist, also were well received.

The rest of the bill included Lawton, the Juggler; Stanley and Birnes, "Two Bright Lights From Broadway," who lived up to their reputations; Jack Benny, Douglas Leavitt and Ruth Mary Lockwood, the musical comedy favorites, in "Ourselves" Kate and Wiley in "Watch Your Step," Pathe News reels, Topics of the Day and Aesop's Fables, modernized for the screen.

Diver Overcome by Heat in 40 Feet of Water

Philadelphia, June 9.—A deep sea diver, 40 feet below the surface of the Delaware, was overcome by the heat on Saturday and remained unconscious on the muddy river bottom for more than 30 minutes before his helpers learned of the trouble.

The diver, Leonard Miller, of Chester, was nearly dead when dragged to safety and is in the Chester Hospital. Ice packs were used to restore him to consciousness. Miller was sent to the bottom of the Delaware to make repairs to the supports of the Sinclair Oil Company docks.

EXCELLENT BILL AT LOEW'S ORPHEUM

Vaudeville of the rare quality, with a superb picture feature made up the bill at Loew's Orpheum Theatre yesterday. Of the many acts, the one that stood out most prominently was the Miller and Marks troupe assisted by Carl Traub's orchestra and featuring the Carr Sisters. Dancing, singing and excellent melody were all ably presented and elicited much applause from the audience. "Don't Make Me Laugh," with Butler and Parker, was a scream of fun, and Wheeler and Potter offered a pleasing comedy skit entitled "Smithy." Another attractive offering was the family playlet, "Fixing Father," with Rose Hubner skilfully portraying the leading character.

The photoplay was "Man and Maid," an Elinor Glyn production, with Lew Cody, Renee Adoree and Harriet Hammond.

CHILDREN TO MEET DUNCAN SISTERS

Beginning with the matinee next Saturday the Duncan Sister will give a reception to all children present at the end of the performance of "Topsy and Eva" at the Colonial Theatre. This is to provide added pleasure for the children who have constituted so large a portion of the matinee audiences. These receptions will be given at the Wednesday and Saturday matinees throughout the engagement.

A special surprise for the first of the children's receptions next Saturday matinee will be the presentation of a doll dressed exactly like one of the sisters in "Topsy and Eva." This will be given to the girl holding a prize winning card.

UNUSUAL PICTURES AT LOEW'S STATE

Loew's State Theatre yesterday presented a photoplay program which was considerably out of the ordinary from the usual type of pictures. The big feature was the presentation of "Lost—A Wife," a screen adaptation of the stage success "Baloo," with Adolphe Menjou, Greta Nissen and Robert Agnew in the principal roles. The story is of one Tony Hamilton, a young American travelling in France, known as "Bet-a-thousand" Tony, because of his propensity to always want to wager on something regardless of what it may be on.

"Lost—A Wife" is notable in that it brings to the screen the new find, Greta Nissen, the Norwegian beauty.

BOSTON RADIO AMERICAN

VOICING THE GREAT AMERICAN DEMOCRACY OF THE AIR

LOCAL STATIONS TONIGHT

John Shaughnessy, who is to be soloist with the Boston Evening American Orchestra, under the direction of William H. Dodge, tonight over Station WNAC, is Boston's own favorite tenor. His magnificent voice and vivid personality has won him many loyal friends all over New England.

He is now under contract with the Gennett Record Company of New York, and his will sing two selections by J. Fred O'Connor, another Boston boy. These two pieces are Mr. O'Connor's latest successes: "That Was a Perfect Dream" and "Athlone."

SONGS IN EVEREADY HOUR.

The "Eveready Hour" from WEAF and ten other stations tonight will consist of a program of old-time popular songs, those which gained their popularity from 1900 to 1910. Such selections as "Rufus Rastus Brown," "Alabama Coon," Barbershop Chord" and the favorite old-time ballad "Love Me and the World Is Mine," are included in the program. Those who arranged this program have also included a waltz medley which will bring to the listeners "Under the Shade of the Old Apple Tree," "Waltz Me Around Again, Willie," and others.

GRAND OPERA FROM N. Y.

Continuing the series of grand operas by the WEAF Grand Opera Company, "Lucia di Lammermoor" will be broadcast tonight, Station WEAF, which, with five other stations, will be linked by telephone lines to WEAF at 10 o'clock, and for one full hour the radio audience will hear this opera in tabloid form. It has been arranged especially for radio broadcasting.

The plot of "Lucia" is founded on Sir Walter Scott's novel, "The Bride of Lammermoor." The music is by Gaetano Donizetti.

CIRCUS MAN TO TALK.

Lew Graham, one of the most picturesque figures in the circus world today, will desert the Big Tent for the microphone at 11 o'clock tonight on WHZ and will give an interesting narrative of circus life.

Starting under the late P. T. Barnum, Graham has been a showman for the past fifty years on the road with the circus. He has travelled all over the country and also made two trips abroad.

Possessed with an unusual voice, Graham's messages, delivered in a natural tone without raising his voice, penetrate every section of the seven hundred and fifty foot canvas.

"HOME, SWEET HOME" BIRTHDAY PARTY TONIGHT

WHT will celebrate the 134th birthday of John Howard Payne, the composer of "Home Sweet Home," tonight between 8 and 9 o'clock, Central Standard Daylight Saving Time.

This most famous of all songs is 103 years old, having been written in 1822 as a part of the opera, "Clari, the Maid of Milan." The words were written by Henry Rowley Bishop and the music was adopted by Payne from a Sicilian air.

Special renditions of "Home Sweet Home" have been arranged and will be presented as a part of the "Home Sweet Home" Birthday Hour.

On Tuesday night, June 23, WHT will celebrate the birthdays of Irvin S. Cobb and the Prince of Wales.

Urge Slemp for Governor

Richmond, Va., June 9.—C. Bascom Slemp, who resigned a few months ago as private secretary to President Coolidge, is being urged to become a Republican candidate for Governor, it was learned here today. He is to attend a meeting soon in Roanoke, when Republican leaders will decide whether to put a G. O. P. ticket in the field in this State or not.

NOISY CHICAGO ROW OVER "SILENT NIGHT"

Chicago, June 9.—A "silent night" controversy is raging noisily here.

Chicago has a silent night on the radio every Monday. Chicago radio broadcasting stations have agreed to keep off the air the one evening each week so that owners of high powered radio sets can reach out and get such places as Los Angeles, New York, London and Havana.

But the silence is shattered by radio stations just outside the city limits, which are not bound by the agreement. And the sweet voices which sounds like London on the silent night turns out to be a station out on the interurban trolley line.

The folks with crystal sets like this. They say they want something doing every night in the week. But the owners of super sets don't agree.

LAST NIGHT ON THE AIR

We listened to another delightful program by the Linnell Entertainers from WNAC. This group, headed by Miss Charlotte Linnell, has endeared itself to all loyal fans by their generous radio offerings in the past. Their program last night was devoted to the "Old Timers," and consisted of the type of songs our mothers and fathers used to sing. Miss Linnell, whose beautiful soprano voice loses none of its charm over the radio, was heard in several of these places. Following the program by the Linnell Entertainers we heard the voice of the WEAN announcer, who took over WNAC's control at the Providence studio. his program was instrumental in character, and was under the direction of Mr. William Place. The music consisted of solos and combinations of several types of instruments, including banjos, saxophones and mandolins. Of special appeal were the banjo duets by Messrs. Chase and Johnson, well-known record artists.

The Metropolitan Health Talk from New York, via WEEI, was given by Dr. Joseph Alexander. His subject was about the housefly, its elimination, etc. Dr. Alexander stated that aerial attacks upon the United States must to be feared were those made by the common housefly. He emphasized keenly, the tremendous necessity for keeping the grounds about the house cleared of all garbage during hot weather, thus making it impossible for the flies to breed. WEEI's 9 o'clock feature was by the well known Gypsies. Their program was largely of request numbers, and was conducted in the same weird style which has made them such an outstanding group of radio artists. I heard the WEAF announcer say that the Gypsies were shortly to leave us for the Summer months, probably to return in the early Fall.

In fishing around for outside stations I heard a circus being broadcast over WGY. It was read fascinating to hear the snappy circus band, the voices of the crowd, and the announcer at work exploiting it all. The reception from WGY was not particularly good, being accompanied with rapid fading and very much quality. I have been troubled with such reception from this station for several weeks, and I wouldn't be surprised if climatic conditions had a lot to do with it. Most of us can remember how good WGY came through to us two years ago—it was one of our best stations.

Receiving conditions during the evening were fair. The static gave little bother, but there seemed to be a good deal of other noise in the air. I presume this latter interference was caused by the drizzling rain getting the wires soaked up out in the street. When this occurs it makes a partial ground between the wire and the limbs of trees through which they may be passing. This noise is usually worst just after a rain or wet snowstorm.

To Speak on Air Mail

The advantages of an air mail extension to Boston will be explained by Colonel Paul Henderson, second assistant postmaster general, at a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce next Monday.

LOWRIE TELLS WHY HE IS DYING IN CELL

dee prosecution, and how his name had figured in the daily newspaper reports during the trial of "the four gunmen," already electrocuted, and his vigorous, bitter persecution of Charles Becker, the New York police lieutenant, who at that very moment was awaiting the "chair" in the death house within Sing Sing's walls.

It had been that case—the prosecution of those charged with responsibility for Rosenthal's murder—that had "made" Whitman and won for him the governorship of New York State.

"What do you think of this case?" he asked, in what seemed to be a half pathetic tone. "I've already passed my word to issue a pardon when his case became hopeless—which it now evidently is. But what will be the result? His offence was a particularly grave one."

"It will have a very beneficial result, so far as the prisoners are concerned," I declared, as impressively as I could. "He had the reputation of being the most dangerous convict in the State. He turned straight, became as good as he had been bad, and saved hundreds of others to do likewise. He can't live to benefit from a pardon, but every prisoner in the state of New York, and many in other States, will realize there is such a thing as recognition of real reward for right, and all they've ever known hitherto has been the certainty of punishment for wrong. His pardon will mean a great deal toward better prison discipline."

The Governor touched a button and asked me to be seated. Presently Potter, the pardon clerk, an ascetic looking man whom I had seen before, and who had a reputation among the prisoners as "a hard nut," appeared. "Fill out a pardon for John ——," ordered Whitman, indicating the name on the doctors' certificate. "Bring it to me at once."

Potter withdrew, and Whitman asked me how matters were going on at Sing Sing. I told him they couldn't be better under the circumstances.

"What do you mean by 'circumstances?'" he demanded.

The rubber cells, the poorly ventilated shops, the overcrowding, the damp walls," I replied. "New York needs an open-air prison, the kind where men will be regenerated and—"

I was interrupted by the reappearance of Potter, who told the governor in what seemed a subdued tone that Blackie had two communications, and innocently (?) inquired which offense the pardon was to cover.

Whitman was surprised. He turned to me half accusatively, or so it seemed. Apparently he was piqued that he had not been acquainted with all the facts of the case.

Briefly, I told him the circumstances—the extra sentence of ten years imposed at Plattsburg for Blackie's attempted escape from Clinton prison.

"I didn't agree to issue two pardons," declared Whitman. "I knew nothing of this other commitment."

"But you agreed to pardon the man, and that's the point," I replied. "Every prisoner in Sing Sing and Auburn knows of that promise. You'll—you'll have to keep your word, Governor."

He glared at me.

"You prison officials are getting altogether too sentimental," he grumbled. "I don't know where it will all end. But you're right. I gave my promise."

He turned to Potter.

"Make out two pardons, one for each case," he ordered.

Much to my secret elation, Potter started to offer some technical objection. In the brief time I had observed Whitman I knew, or felt, that opposition was the very thing that would make him determined, so I spoke.

"Get the two pardons ready!" he snapped.

Potter retired again, and Whitman began reading from a typewritten document on his desk. At last Potter returned, bearing two long sheets of parchment, which he smoothed out before the executive. Whitman glanced over them hastily and then dashed off his name, twice. I waited to reach for the documents and must have made an involuntary movement to do so.

"They've got to have the great seal affixed first," said Potter. "It will take only a minute."

I arose to thank the Governor.

"Perhaps you'd like to telephone to the prison," he suggested, considerately. "I suppose they'll like to know, especially the beneficiary. You'll find a booth in the next room."

I thanked him again and withdrew. In the telephone booth I got Malloy, the chief clerk at the prison, on the line. Osborne, I learned, had gone to New York, and Johnson, the deputy warden, was somewhere inside the prison.

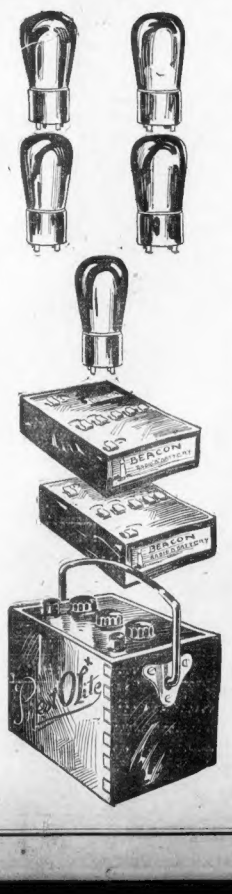
No Radical Changes Are to Be Made

Now and again you hear unfounded stories about this, that, or the other radical and fundamental improvement in Radio Receiving Sets. There are no such changes in sight. It is the business of the Freed-Eisemann staff of research engineers to keep Freed-Eisemann receivers in the vanguard of radio development. And Freed-Eisemann engineers assure us that the buyer of a Freed-Eisemann receiver possesses an instrument that will do everything that can be expected from any Freed-Eisemann radio set for many years to come.



IMPORTANT FEATURES

—No unsightly wires or loops. Use outdoor or indoor aerial. For general use, a wire hidden behind the picture moulding from one room to another will be satisfactory.

—Utter simplicity of operation. Stations always come in at the same dial settings.

—Subjected to seventeen separate factory tests before being pronounced perfect.

—Backed by an organization of great financial strength and a guarantee of dependability.

—Selected by Government experts—purchased by the Navy for installation on the President's yacht.

Overwhelming Proof of Freed-Eisemann Supremacy

There are fourteen well-known manufacturers licensed to make Neutrodyne Receivers. The overwhelming proof of Freed-Eisemann supremacy is the fact that the official figures show that for the year 1924 the sales of the Freed-Eisemann Radio Corporation alone were more than half the combined total of the other 13 manufacturers.

Freed-Eisemann is one of the few great names in Radio—an honor gained by building only the best.

Today they are the most successful of Neutrodyne manufacturers, selling more than twice as many sets as their closest competitor. By this sale thousands of new homes will learn the joys of Radio with Freed-Eisemann Receivers.

Nature seals the flavor in NATURE invented dust-proof, germ-proof packages long before inventive man first had the same idea.

It's just such a package wise nature offers you a favored fruit—bananas. The air-tight, protective skin is crammed full of nourishing goodness.

And then—exactly as if she wanted to make sure you would eat plenty of this wholesome food—nature added the delicate flavor that makes the banana a lure to the appetite.

If you are one of the know-ing ones who like really ripe bananas, you have discovered for yourself how good bananas at their best can be. But—if you haven't learned to wait until the golden skin is flecked with brown—you have a thrill in store for you the moment you first taste a creamy, really ripe banana.

Serve bananas over cereal, in salads, and in dozens of good desserts. Buy them by the dozen, let them ripen at home, and eat them when they are sweetest and best.

PHYSICIAN TAKES OUT POLICY

Dr. Francis D. Donoghue, medical adviser of the State Industrial Accident Board, and his secretary, Miss Mary B. Martin of Cambridge, signing an application for a Boston Evening American $7,500 policy.

Coming in daily contact with hundreds of accident cases, Dr Francis D. Donoghue, medical adviser to the State Industrial Accident Board, and his private secretary, Miss Mary B. Martin of Cambridge, have been quick to realize the value of the $7,500 accident policy offered by The Boston Evening American to its subscribers.

"The American is to be congratulated on its initiative in placing these policies for so small a sum within the grasp of its readers," said the doctor, while the simple process of signing up was being gone through by he and Miss Martin. "Its a splendid protection and should be taken advantage of by everyone."

The doctor related a case within his own official family, when Miss Anna Rodman of Medford slipped on a step at the Beacon street entrance of the Common, one day last Winter.

A broken hip resulted.

"Miss Rodman has been in the Massachusetts General Hospital for seventeen weeks," he said, "and it looks as though she would be there for seventeen more.

"All she could draw from the State was a month's sick leave pay. She couldn't sue the city, because the city is not responsible for injuries suffered in its parks."

Several other members of Dr. Donoghue's department are making arrangements to take out policies offered by The Boston Evening American.

Good Machinist, War Veteran, Needs Work

The Boston Chamber of Commerce is again seeking jobs for rehabilitated veterans. These men have been thoroughly trained under the supervision of the Veterans' Bureau. They are not mendicants nor seekers after charity, but ready to turn in a good day's work for a day's pay.

No. 354 served with the 104th Infantry, is 25 years old, married and has a family. He is a first-class machinist who wants the opportunity to make good in his trade. He lives in Wakefield.

If you can use this man communicate with the secretary, special committee on the employment of rehabilitated veterans, Boston Chamber of Commerce.

ZIONISTS WILL CONVENE ON WEEK-END

The New England Zionist Region will welcome to its annual convention 300 delegates and alternates from every section of the six States next Saturday night and Sunday at Springfield.

Louis Lipsky, president of the Zionist Organization of America and member of the World Zionist Executive Committee, will make the principal address of the convention.

Judge David A. Lourie will also speak. Isaac Harris, Elihu D. Stone, president of the New England Region; Benjamin Rabalsky, treasurer; Mendel N. Fisher, executive secretary; Robert Silverman, regional director of the Keren Hayesod, and others will report the work of their respective committees.

A reception and dance will welcome the delegates to Springfield on Saturday night, but the convention will officially begin on Sunday morning when the Mayor of Springfield will bring the greetings of the city to the representatives.

The fifteenth anniversary of the Sisterhood of Temple Beth El, Fowler street, Dorchester, was observed in the Hebrew School auditorium with 150 present. The guest of the day was Mrs. Samuel Spaigel of New York, president of the Women's League of the United Synagogue of America.

Other guests included Rabbi and Mrs. David M. Shohet and Mrs. Louis M. Epstein and Mrs. Sickles of Sisterhood Temple Mishkan Tefila. In charge were Mrs. I. Myers and Mrs. S. Bloom.

A bon voyage luncheon to Hadassah workers was held at the Beacon House, Beacon street, Brookline. "Touring workers," who left for the Holy Land, were the guests of the day. Mrs. Charles Askowith was in charge.

The annual convention of Young Judea, the national Jewish youth organization, will be held at Belmar, N. J., June 19, 20 and 21. Delegates from all the country will be in attendance. The organization will conduct a dance in the auditorium of the Revere City Hall tomorrow night. The committee in charge is headed by Miss Mae Seidman.

LAST OF "BRICKBOTTOM" RUM TO BE DUMPED TODAY

The balance of liquor seized in the raids in Somerville's "brick-bottom" district was to be destroyed at the Tannery street dump, East Cambridge today.

It is expected the trials of the persons arrested in the raids will be in order soon. The prosecution will be in charge of Assistant District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell.

The Nation's Test of Prohibition

Ontario, another Canadian province, recently went from dry to wet, and it now allows the sale of beer.

People in the United States from all over the country have been flocking into Detroit and crossing the river to get Canadian beer.

There is a continual cry that prohibition has failed in the United States. A review of the facts may be interesting.

Fact one is that prohibition started in this country January 16, 1920.

On January 16, 1919, the thirty-sixth State voted for the eighteenth amendment, which provided for prohibition.

This amendment was passed by over two-thirds of each house of Congress in 1917. That does not prove that it is right, but it does indicate that a majority wanted to try it.

At that time thirty-two States had State prohibition, most of them by popular referendum.

Every State Legislature but two ratified the amendment finally. Connecticut and Rhode Island did not.

Some States co-operate with the Federal government in enforcing prohibition, and others do not.

Although the amendment says that we shall have prohibition, it does not say how it shall be enforced. This was told in the Volstead act of 1919, which says that any beverage containing over ½ per cent. of alcohol is intoxicating and, therefore, prohibited.

The Volstead act is fanatical in some of its provisions. But there are 38.9 millions of depositors in savings banks now and the year before prohibition there were only 10.6 millions. Roger W. Babson, the expert in figures, says that prohibition is the chief cause.

Prohibition interfered with the pleasures of a great many people and is, therefore, unpopular. It is backed, however, by the conscientious feeling of a great many, and the governmen at Washington is sincerely trying to enforce it.

But it is very difficult to get any jury to convict any violator of the law unless it was violated as a business for profit. That shows that juries favor personal liberty.

If prohibition is founded upon right and justice and the care for the majority at the expense of the minority, it will eventually succeed. If it is wrong and improper, the Volstead act will be repealed and a much more moderate temperance act substituted.

It is now being tried out in the rough sea of experiment.

Fast Racing Boat Beats 20th Century

Not As Important As It Sounds

On the trip from Albany to New York one speed boat beat the time of the Twentieth Century. A little later another boat, the Baby Gar IV., gave the Twentieth Century a worse "beating."

The speed of those small boats, not practical for use on any extended scale, is not important.

Twenty years ago such speed would have had its value. A fast boat, carrying torpedoes and shooting them from the bow, might have decided a big battle at sea.

But the flying machine has ended all that. No boat can successfully race against a flying machine. And no boat can live on the surface of the water if a few flying machines attack it.

Besides, remember to the credit of the Twentieth Century engineer, that while the speed boat RACED, straining its engine and power to the last inch, the Twentieth Century DID NOT RACE.

The engineer on each Twentieth Century section, had he chosen to do so, and take risks with a heavy train full of passengers, could probably have beaten the time made by either of the racing boats. But he ran as ordered, ON SCHEDULE TIME.

Quite recently the Twentieth Century has deliberately and intentionally cut from two to four hours from its maximum speed between New York and Chicago. And while the little speed boats were racing on the water the Twentieth Century was going its regular gait, making the speed, mile after mile, that it makes every day, the able locomotive engineer attending to his business, not worrying about the speed boats.

It is not the speed boat, plunging, hopping and spanking along the water, as at present developed, that threatens the supremacy of the railroads.

The machine destined to beat the Twentieth Century, and ultimately put it out of business, will travel in the air, far above the railroad tracks.

Big flying machines will make the trip from New York to Chicago, in perfect ease and safety, in four hours. And fast trains thundering along the rails will be as obsolete as the stage coach.

In the next generation it will be hard for children to imagine that men once were dragged along the ground at high speed, by pounding locomotives crashing over frogs and switches, with grinding brakes, at the ridiculously slow speed of 22 hours for 1,000 miles—the speed that now seems marvelously great.

An Irrational Strike

The American Bathing Girl Should Be an Inspiration and a Stimulant to Workmen

Certain laborers in Atlantic City went on strike the other day. Throwing down their tools they asserted that until steps were taken to prevent bathing girls promenading across their vision they would not work.

This seems an unwarranted aspersion on the great American bathing girl, of whom the country is properly proud. If her appearance impeded the progress of work, the fault surely rests with the workmen.

If they were normal, healthy, American laborers the sight of a procession of bathing girls would be an inspiration, a stimulant to efficiency, a spectacle to be greeted with cheers.

The contractor should lose nothing by this strike. For every man who quits, there will be a thousand volunteers to fill his place. Many a man would work for nothing in such an environment!

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By Helen Rowland

THERE are good men, better men and "best men."

* * *

Good men are loved, better men are honored; but the "best man" receives the usual reward of the altruist in this world—ingratitude, suspicion and the bill for the taxicab.

* * *

No woman ever realizes how much she owes her husband's "best man" until the excitement is all over and she wakes up to the fact that it takes more than love and a taxi to get a man to his wedding on time and in good condition.

Helen Rowland

The "best man" usually has to supply the courage, the presence of mind, the boutonniere and the ring for the bridegroom. He lends his moral support, his blessing, his gloves and his flask. His continual reassurances, reminders and "braces" are as necessary to the bridegroom's presence and morale as are the bouquets to the bridesmaids.

* * *

And all this he does in a cause for which he has no sympathy and very little patience. For, even while he cheers him on, he secretly regards the bridegroom as a victim of dementia or a "horrible example" and pities him from the depths of his shirt-bosom.

* * *

Nothing but chivalry and his sense of honor sustains him; he feels in duty bound to produce the guilty party at the every door and see the "poor simp" through his terrible ordeal—just as he would deliver an intoxicated pal at his wife's door-step.

* * *

BUT—there is where he wants to wash his hands of the whole affair!

* * *

When the bridegroom returns to normalcy and his office desk, it is TOO much to be regarded as "accessory before the fact" in a crime that the best man would have prevented if he could.

* * *

Regarded as a savior and deliverer before the wedding, the "best man" always suspects that, after the honeymoon, he will be looked upon as a traitor, who helped "railroad" a trusting pal to the matrimonial morris chair, who "double-crossed" his old pard and turned State's evidence at the vital moment!

For years his conscience hurts him whenever he stops to think that he did not lift a hand to prevent the sacrifice of his friend at the altar. It makes him shiver to remember that he acted as sponsor and promptor—HE, a man with a cool blood in his veins, no license in his pocket, and a date to play golf at the Country Club!

* * *

A woman's bridesmaids feel that they have shared something sacred and sublime with her. But the "best man" always feels, somehow, that he has betrayed the friend of his bosom in his weakest hour and shared with him a secret shame and a public humiliation.

* * *

Nobody contributes as much toward the success of a wedding as the "best man"—not even the bride. Nobody suffers as much at a wedding—not even the bridegroom!

THE HELPING HAND

Letters Not Answered Personally. No Attention Paid to Telephone Calls or Anonymous Letters. No Names Published.

Need Light Clothing

Helping Hand Editor:

I wish you would help me get some clothing for my boys 8, 7 and 5 and girl 4. They are mostly in need of underclothes and overalls and blouses for the girl, and if you can get me some baby clothing for a new arrival in the Fall, I will be so thankful. I have nine children. I would like a loose light coat, size 50, and a dress.
MRS. JOHN G.

All Greatly in Need

Helping Hand Editor:

We are all so much in need. My husband is sick in bed with T. B. and rheumatism and I have six children, three girls, 5, 3 and 1, who wear shoes 2, 6 and 8, and boys 10, 12 and 14, shoes 2, 3 and 5. I expect the stork soon and have nothing for it. I need sheets and pillow cases. I wear size 38 or 40 and shoes 7. My husband wears size 40, slippers 8. He gets up a little while to rest and needs these things. Please do help up. MRS. MARY W.

Poor Widow Pleads

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a poor widow. I have no one to look after me and can do only one washing a week as I am 65 years old, so that is just enough to get food, but I need clothing badly. I have just one apron to wear. I wear size 46, shoes 7½.
MRS. MARY L.

Needs of Others

Mrs. N. E., living alone in a camp in the woods, would like the company of a woman who needs such a place for her health, or a couple who would like to rough it for the Summer. Ten cent carfare to Boston.

* * *

Mrs. M. E. E. asks if some kind reader has the book by Hall Caine, "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," she wants to present to an invalid friend who longs to read it. Will be glad to return the favor in any way possible.

* * *

Mrs. B. N. S. asks for pants, size 40 waist, shirts 15½ and shoes, size 7½, for her husband. Only gets $14.15 a week and there are seven to feed. She would like some dresses so she can go to work and help out.

* * *

Mrs. B. R. I writes she has kitchen table, three chairs and a congoleum rug she would give to some needy woman who would do some housework for her. If possible someone who would like steady work one day a week.

* * *

Mrs. M. D., mother of seven, and husband in ill health, would like an icechest and full size mattress.

* * *

Mrs. M. D. I., husband sick, would appreciate clothes and shoes for boys 12 and 8, girls 4 and 7 months. She takes size 42, shoes 4; can make over anything.

* * *

Mrs. E. A., mother of three children, husband making small wages, is in need of a crib and mattress also a twin baby carriage.

* * *

Mrs. E. C. is in need of a bed and mattress, also a stroller for baby. Deserted mother of four children.

* * *

Mrs. O. S. would appreciate a Summer coat.

* * *

Mrs. C. B., mother of nine, needs some dresses and shoes, size 6, and rompers for baby 2 and shoes, size 4, for a cripple.

* * *

M. L., whose husband is without work, is a cripple and asks for a wheel chair so she can get out.

* * *

Mrs. S. H. would appreciate clothing for boy 8 and girl 3, for herself, size 38, and husband, size 40, shoes 7. Have had lots of sickness this Winter.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis.

WHEN the echoes of the music and the laughter die away, when the light gives place to darkness at the closing of the day, when the gay Folly's reign is ended and we watch Time's falling sands slipping from us, ah! so swiftly, drifting through our eager hands, comes a moment when we wonder, comes an instant of regret, comes a mood of poignant sadness when our eyes with tears are wet.
We grow faint with hungry longing for a thing we cannot name, brighter yet than worldly treasure, sweeter far than worldly fame.
At the end of all endeavor, with the grasp of every goal, flames this sudden lofty vision of the greatness of the soul.
Higher yet than all aspiring, fairer still than any dream, glows this glimpse of inner being in a splendid, dazzling gleam!

FUNERAL SIMPLICITY MORE DIGNIFIED

By DR. FRANK CRANE

WHEN Mrs. Lydia Harding Hammond died last January, she stated in her will that she did not want her children to spend money foolishly on funeral display. They were to bury her cheaply, to wear no mourning, and to think of her as living happily in heaven and not dead. She added:

"Don't keep anything just because it is mine. They are just things, and worn and shabby at that. Love does not need such things for remembrance."

It is the custom in some circles almost to impoverish the remaining family under the feeling that they are doing honor to those that are dead.

While it is just to pay the dead all respect it is a question whether the dead would wish so much respect shown that the living would be impoverished.

With funerals, as with everything else, the simpler the better.

Surely death is no time for vulgar display or for show. The dead certainly do not want it and it is of questionable advantage to the living.

The funeral which is conducted with simplicity and severe plainness will have dignity and impress people more than one on which a lot of money is spent.

The custom of erecting costly monuments carries the distinction of class and property into the graveyard. If democracy should be anywhere it should be in death. There the prince and pauper are equal, and the worms prey alike upon the king and the beggar maid.

The occasion of death should be the last place for display or precedence.

GOD, RELIGION AND SCIENCE

By Garrett P. Serviss

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

IN a little book on "Science and Life," Robert Andrews Millikan, famous for his measurements of the electron and other distinguished scientific work, has included a chapter on "Science and Religion," which, I think, should be read by every person who imagines that there is a conflict between science and religion, as well as by all who are troubled by doubts about God.

Man has no more important thing to do than to settle these questions as far as he possibly can. In comparison, his greatest enterprises sink into insignificance.

They belong to the order of ant hills. They are conceived for an existence that is as ephemeral as the morning dewdrops and their deceptive flash of glory is as quickly gone.

The example of a leader in the most abstruse scientific investigations of modern science, like Dr. Millikan must have a strong influence upon wavering minds. In showing why in the nature of things there can be no conflict between science and religion, he says:

"The purpose of science is to develop without prejudice or preconception of any kind a knowledge of the facts, the laws and the processes of nature.

"The even more important task of religion, on the other hand, is to develop the consciences, the ideals and the aspirations of mankind."

Dr. Millikan says it is an "obvious fact that every one who reflects at all believes in one way or another in God." And he goes on to say:

"Although you may not believe in some particular conception of God which I may try to give expression to, and although it is unquestionably true that many of our conceptions are sometimes childishly anthropomorphic, every one who is sufficiently in possession of his faculties to recognize his own inability to comprehend the problem of existence bows his head in the presence of Nature, if you will, the God. I prefer to say, who is behind it all and whose attributes are partially revealed to us in it all, so that it pains me as much as it did Kelvin to hear crudely atheistic views expressed by men who have never known the deeper side of existence."

It is the growth of man's conception of God that prevents conflict between progressive science and religion. Such growth is beautifully expressed in a little book, an unrhymed poem, privately printed by a friend of mine, called "The Living God."

The most dangerous forces stirring in the world today unite in decrying God and religion. Many persons join in the cry under the mistaken and illogical notion that religion is nothing but superstition. Many think that God is banished by the banishment of the old, narrow, temporary, anthropomorphic conceptions of him.

They really suppose that they are warring on God when they denounce the cruelties and futilities of conduct ascribed to the "Jehovah" of the Old Testament.

He represented an infinitely better conception of godhood than any of the Olympian group, alternately worshiped and laughed at by the intellectual Greeks; but his passing is but a phenomenon of the expanding human mind, while the real God—God felt but unnamed—remains always, and comes nearer to man as man more and more clearly perceives his relations to the universe.

I have just received a beautiful letter on this subject, written by a deeply thinking woman, from which I will quote:

"In your article on the 'Real Aim of Science,' you say that you make no pretense to define God. While I, myself, have clearly outlined and obliged to define God to myself in a way to reconcile my religious and scientific views.

"God is the Life Principle. In the beginning the 'Spirit of God brooded upon the face of the waters.' In time this life principle evolved for itself workshops, which we know as the cells of all living matter.

"Dividing, subdividing, by the process of evolution all the different forms were produced in wondrous design. 'God made them.' God is in me, my personal Saviour, vivifying every cell of my body. He is in every other living being, making each my brother. He dwells and works in every living blade of grass, in all animal and insect life, giving me a feeling of kinship with them, though I believe I am a part of God's acme of creation, making me also akin to all life throughout the universe, in whatever planet it may have been fortunate enough to develop."

ONCE-OVERS

HAVE YOU THE BORROWING HABIT OR DO YOU KEEP THE RESPECT OF YOUR FRIENDS?

Have you the borrowing habit?

Do you frequently ask your fellow employes, "Lend me a dollar till pay day."

This habit of yours is disagreeable to your associates and detrimental to you.

If you would budget your expenses, so as to have money enough to carry you over from one pay day to another, you could cut down expenditures and not have to borrow.

The fact that your kind friends have been willing to stake you makes you too free and too careless about how much you spend.

The men from whom you constantly borrow look upon you as a pest.

Also they think you are a poor manager.

If these friends who help you out should ever go into business and they need a man to handle money, they would not select you because of your poor policy in managing your own money. They might be afraid that you would be tempted to make temporary loans to yourself from their funds.

Get out of the panhandling class.
